REMEMBRANCE DAY SERVICE

Probably the most successful and impressive Remembrance Day service held locally since the war, took place on Saturday forenoon last, when the Orpheum theatre was packed to the doors by men, women and children, including representative squads from the ex-servicemen, Scouts, Girl Guides and Brownies.

The chair was taken at 10:45 by Capt. W. J. Fisher, when the service opened with hearty singing of the popular "O Canada," followed by invocation and scripture reading by Rev. A. E. Larke. This was followed at 11 by the audience standing for two minutes in silence.

"In remembrance of those who made the great sacrifice, O God make us better men and women, and give peace in our time."

Hymn, "O God our Help in ages past."

Able addresses were delivered by Capt. James H. Farmer and Mr. J. E. Gillis, and memorial prayer by Rev. Mr. Larke.

The "Roll Call" was made by Capt. Fisher, with response by J. Rudd. The "Last Post" was sounded by J. Lowe, of Coleman.

"God Save The King" and benediction.

Following the service, members of the B.E.S.L., the I.O.D.E. and a large concourse of citizens proceeded to the cemeteries, where graves of soldiers were decorated and impressive services took place.

During the services, several selections were rendered by the Upton orchestra, which also furnished accompaniment for the hymns sung in the theatre and at the cemeteries.

At the conclusion of the service in the theatre, a vote of thanks was accorded the theatre management for loaning the theatre for the occasion, also to the Upton orchestra and others who so kindly assisted in the programme.

GRAND ORGANIZER VISITS LOCAL ELKS

P. A. Miquelon, Grand Organizer.

The local lodge of Elks was on Tuesday evening favored with a visit from their grand organizer, Bro. P. A. Miquelon, of Calgary, who addressed a well attended regular meeting in the lodge hall.

Bro. Miquelon's address was without a doubt the most inspiring ever heard here, dealing with the principles of the order, which is doing such magnificent work throughout the domain of Canada and Newfoundland. He complimented the local lodge upon the influence for good being exerted by them in this community and district, and called upon all members to live up to their obligations to do good wherever necessary.

A number of other speakers followed, including the following: G. E. Cruickshank, M.L.A., C. J. Tompkins, D.D.G.E.R., J. A. Kerr, W. H. Chapell, and others.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served.

Bro. Miquelon left by Wednesday afternoon's train for Calgary. He hopes later in the season to return to The Pass to conduct a membership drive.

ANNIVERSARY AND OLD TIMERS' SERVICE

Sunday, November 19th, at 7:30 p.m., will be celebrated at the United church as the occasion of the anniversary and Old Timers' service, the guest preacher being Rev. Thomas Foyell, D.D., himself an old timer in the province. All are cordially invited to attend. As the roll call of the years of residence in the Pass is made, the pioneers of the district will stand to their feet, until the last person to stand will be he (or she) who has lived here for the greatest number of years. News items of church activities of the early years will be read, giving some facts relating to the three churches which formed the local union: the Baptist and Presbyterian churches, of Blairmore, and the Methodist church, of Frank. Letters of greeting from former ministers will be read.

On Wednesday, November the 22nd, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid, a turkey supper will be held. Tickets—Adults 50 cents, children 35 cents.

MALE VOICE CHOIR ORGANIZED

Since the musical festival, considerable interest has been stirred toward the formation of a local male voice choir. Considerable talent was known to be available, so the matter was brought to a head on Sunday afternoon last, when a meeting of those interested was held at the Greenhill hotel and very well attended.

The meeting was called to order with Mr. J. E. Upton acting temporarily as chairman and T. J. Williams as secretary.

After a few words of explanation of the purpose of the meeting by the chairman, it was decided by motion to form a choir, to be known as the "Blairmore Male Voice Choir," with the following officers: Thomas Beynon, Hillcrest, conductor; J. E. Upton, Blairmore, assistant conductor; Harold Mark, pianist; Harry Bloke, president; Tom Mark, junior, vice-president; Stanley Price, treasurer; and T. J. Williams, secretary.

The first practice will be held at the Greenhill hotel this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

COLEMAN BOARD OF TRADE TO TAKE STAND

At a meeting of the Coleman Board of Trade recently, unfair competition of trucking companies against railroads was discussed at length. It was stated that owing to low wages, no regulation of rates, use of highways, maintained by public funds, no regulation of hours and lack of traffic supervision on highways, trucking companies were able to carry on business, whereas railroads are compelled to comply with rulings of the board of railway commissioners and maintain a trade union scale in dealing with employees.

Such unfair competition was deemed impossible to combat, and the railroads could not reduce their wages scales to the same level as that paid by trucking companies.

One complaint was made that trucks have delivered goods in Coleman on Sundays, and in some cases throughout the night. A resolution will be formulated and submitted to a further meeting of the merchants to be forwarded to other boards of trade in the province and to the provincial government.

Chiselling

The N.R.A. campaign in the United States, if it has not added a new word to the vocabulary of the American people, has at least given a popular and significant meaning to an old word, and has brought that word into every day conversation. It is being used by everybody from President Roosevelt to the man on the street corner. The word is "Chisel." "Chiselling." "Chiselling." It has become an accepted slang phrase, and like so many slang words and phrases it is very appropriate for the use to which it is being put.

In its usually accepted meaning, "Chisel" is the name of an instrument of iron or steel used in carpentry, joinery, cabinet work, masonry, sculpture, etc., for paring, hewing, or gouging. In its slang adaptation it is applied to mean "to cut close," as in a bargain; in a word, to cheat.

Thus, under the now almost universal N.R.A. codes in the United States providing for shortening hours of labor, increasing wages, controlling rates of prices, regulating production, the word is being applied to the individual or the concern which by any devious means or another seeks to pare off a little here or there from the spirit of the agreement into which they have entered, or to gouge a little out of their workmen or their customers. Such individuals or concerns are known as "chisellers," and the tactics employed by them as "chiselling." They are apt and expressive words when so used.

One is inclined to extend the application of these terms beyond the N.R.A. in the United States, and apply them generally to the attitude of many people in all lands and of all classes and conditions to life itself, its manifold duties and responsibilities.

There is the boy and girl in school whose education is being provided for them possibly at great expense and very real sacrifices by their parents but who, instead of applying themselves diligently to their studies for the few brief years of school training, are just "chiselling" their way through, devoting only sufficient time and thought to their work to "get by" but not really and earnestly striving to make the most of their opportunities. They are responsible for waste all round—waste of money and of personal sacrifice by their parents, waste of their own time and opportunities, waste of the teacher's time and effort. They are chiselling something out of their own lives which, to their lasting regret in later years, they can never replace.

There is the teacher who, instead of giving of their very best to their pupils, and taking a keen interest in their advancement, are content to just "get by" their inspector and retain their positions by having a sufficiently satisfactory number of "passes" by their pupils irrespective of the fact as to whether or not real learning has been done by them.

There are the "clock watching" employees, clerks, stenographers, workmen in all trades, laborers in every field, who, instead of striving to give a maximum of efficient service in return for the wages paid to them, are time-servers, doing just as little as they can, gouging their employers of time and effort which rightfully belongs to them. On the other hand, there is the employer who in one way or another gouges his most faithful employees.

There is the contractor and the manufacturer who gouges the public by using shoddy material or pure materials, who pares off a portion of the rightful amount of material that ought to go into the production of an article or in the construction of a building, and who is not above slipping one or two imperfect articles into a shipment of goods, or using some defective material in a building where the life is barred away from sight. They are chisellers, and are indifferent to the fact that their chiselling may result in disaster, great loss and suffering to others.

There is the debtor on the one hand who resorts to every kind of a dodge in an endeavor to escape payment of his just debts, and the creditor on the other hand who takes advantage of the difficulties of his debtors to despoil them for all they have regardless of the fact that those difficulties may be beyond the debtor's control and which to the best of his ability he is striving to overcome. Both classes are chisellers.

There is that large group who have a perverted twist or kink in their characters which induces the belief that it is all right to try and get the best of Governments—persons who will smuggle, persons who "chisel" with great ingenuity when filling out an Income Tax return, persons who surreptitiously use their radios or motor cars without a license, and so forth and so on.

Then there are numerous people who "chisel" in the discharge of their general obligations as citizens. Men and women, for example, who are too indifferent to even take the trouble to cast a ballot; who defame all persons in public office who are endeavoring to serve the public welfare; who characterize politics as dirty and corrupt and who stand aloof therefrom instead of discharging their own duty and actively assisting to raise the standard of public life.

Possibly each and every one of us is a chiseller in one way or another. And it might not be a bad idea for all of us to take stock of our own attitude towards many things and thus seek to discover just wherein we are chisellers.

The vital question is: What kind of a chiseller are you?

Developing New Industry
The latest Manitoba industry to be developed is the Manitoba low bush cranberry. Hitherto cranberries have been imported into the province. The type that grows in Northern Manitoba is known as the "low bush" cranberry, which the early winter frost seems to sweeten so that frozen berries can be thawed with full flavor retained. The berries are coming to Winnipeg in 1,000 pound lots.

Radcliffe, England, with 25,000 population, boasts it has no slums.

Were Game Anyway
A former Seattle girl has "crashed" the pages of a New York poetry magazine, which was to be run by men, written by men, and read by men, only. After they had mailed a cheque and published they found it was written by Miss Audrey Wurdemann, who has been in New York the past six months. And, after seeing her picture, they published that, too.

Testing Penny Flipping Odds

Professor Hopes To Prove Heads And Tails Are About Even

Penny flipping odds are about even on heads and tails after 40,000 scientific flips. That's what Professor Pope R. Hill, of the mathematics department of the University of Georgia, has found. Months ago Professor Hill began his flipping. He assembled 200 pennies, a hundred of one date, and the same of another. He balanced each penny against the other down to one-thousandth of a gram. He expects to flip the pennies for the 100,000th time next July and then his experiment will be complete.

LETTER FROM A MAN OF 90

About His Rheumatism

He asks us to excuse his writing. He does not do this, says the writer, but he does not want to write at all at his age, especially as he has been suffering from rheumatism. "This is what he says in his letter:—
"Three years ago I was in bed for six weeks with inflammatory rheumatism. Since that time I have been taking Kruschen Salts, and have not had another attack. But my hands are still somewhat stiff. I take Kruschen every morning before breakfast, and shall continue to do so, because I am sure it has kept me in good shape for three years. Excuse this writing, as I am ninety years old, and use both hands to write."
Kruschen dissolves away those needle-pointed crystals of uric acid which are the cause of all rheumatic troubles. It will also flush these "dissolved" crystals clean out of the system. Then if you keep up the "little daily dose," excess uric acid will never form again.

Prefer Living On Mainland

Families On Bardsey Island Find It Too Lonesome

Bardsey Island, off the coast of Wales, is becoming too lonesome for Thomas Jones and Griffith Griffiths and their families, the only inhabitants. Both men have offered their farms for rent and are leaving to take up farming on the mainland. Griffiths also is preparing to leave the island. If tenants are not found, Bardsey will be deserted. Seven years ago all the inhabitants with their "king," evacuated, but eventually it was re-inhabited.

Some Sailors Privileged

Those Who Play Football Are Kept In Port

Football has become popular among sailors and their wives—at Chatham, England, since it has been rumored that seafaring men who play the game are privileged to go ashore while other who are good only on naval occasions are sent to sea out of their turn. The gridiron stars are for the idea 100 per cent. The wives of all sailors, who know that husbands at home are safe from girls and other perils, are urging their marital mates to get on a team without delay.

Known as the "Tally-Ho V.C.," and stated to have been the first British soldier to enter an enemy trench in the Great War near Mons, Col. John Vaughan Campbell, V.C., has been placed on the retired list under the age limit and granted the honorary rank of brigadier. Col. Campbell earned the soubriquet because he rallied his men under enemy machine-gun fire by blowing a hunting horn and giving the traditional hunting-cry.

Leaving Pacific For Summer

U.S. Fleet Is Ordered To Concentrate In Atlantic

The United States fleet will be concentrated in the Atlantic next spring for the first time in almost four years. President Roosevelt authorized the first line of defence to start steaming from the Pacific to the east coast after the winter months. It will return to the Pacific in the fall.

The fleet, comprising the battle and scouting forces—the latter formerly known as the Atlantic fleet—have been stationed in the Pacific since the spring of 1932.

During the past 18 months the navy has explained that the scouting force was kept in the Pacific for reasons of operating economy. The situation in the far east was understood, however, to have played a considerable part in the retention of the full fleet in the Pacific.

The reason given for the order to return was explained by Henry L. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, as a return to the fleet's normal operating policy.

Russia Must Recognize

Fair Business Practice

Hon. H. H. Stevens, Raps Trade Methods Of Soviets
Russia must come again to "a recognition of fair business practice" before the nations of the world can do business on a normal basis with her, in the opinion of Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Russia, he said, had followed a practice of disposing of goods at "any price, cost or value" which could be obtained. "Until Russia abandoned, for instance, the 'fall clause' in her contracts whereby Soviet agents were empowered to sell below the price asked by 'any other nation,' world countries could hardly be expected to trade with her normally. Relations with Russia had been 'dislocated' by such trading practices as these.

Mr. Stevens was guest speaker at the first dinner gathering of the junior board of trade of the city of Ottawa, which came into being not long ago.

Hard To Replace

People Always Find Something Staple About Old Friends

Old friends are so hard to replace. We meet new ones all the time, but the new ideas are not the real ideas of years ago. There is something staple about old friends. You know them, and when you know someone for twenty-five or thirty years and meet them all the time, it is a different thing. The old friends are not the real friends. The old friends are the ones who give you the hells from an old friend means so much more. You look into each other's eyes, and see each weathering the storm of life—what is gray, who is getting bald, who has grown the fat, and when you both meet and one says you look the same as you did twenty-five years ago and the same compliment is returned makes the hello so different.

Credit To His Training

A citizen of Cody, Wyoming, lost a ten-dollar bill while shopping. His search for it was fruitless, but when he went to feed his dog next morning, the animal was carefully guarding the missing bill. The dog had been trained to pick up anything his master dropped. Apparently, enough the dog was a Chesapeake Bay retriever.

Architect Thinks Era

Of Skyscraper Over

Foresees Exodus From Cities With Shorter Working Week

In the skyscraper, doomed by the approaching shorter work week and other industrial and social changes which promises to result from the revolutionary consequences of the depression?

William Orr Ludlow, chairman of the committee on industrial relations of the American Institute of Architects, in a report to the Institute has declared he believes the skyscraper era may be through.

He foresees an exodus from the cities with the coming of a four-day week. Cities will be more and more business, industrial and shipping centres. People will live outside, where they can spend their leisure to better advantage.

Mr. Ludlow furthermore looks for a great building revival as good times begin to return. He advises architects, engineers, builders, city planners, and others to begin studying the latest trends so that the new building activity will not be haphazard.

It is entirely possible that when America wakes up out of this depression it will be in a new kind of world, with vastly changed problems. The foremost of these likely will be the redistribution of population as the result of reduced hours of work.—New York World-Telegram.

Had Outstanding Career

Director Of Pasteur Institute Dies After Long Illness

Pierre Paul Emile Roux died in Paris at the age of 80 after a long and outstanding career as director of the Pasteur Institute and collaborator with Louis Pasteur in studies of bacteriology and diseases like diphtheria.

He had suffered from tuberculosis for 40 years while a colleague, Dr. Albert Calmette, who died Oct. 29, struggled to find a cure for the disease.

To much of the world Dr. Roux seemed an ascetic recluse, for he ate simply, slept on a hard camp bed, and spent much of his time in research. From 1904 to 1918 he directed the Pasteur Institute.

He studied infectious diseases and hydrophobia and produced vaccines in collaboration with Pasteur and others for anthrax, dread cattle scourge. He aided also in the development of diphtheria toxoid. With Dr. Behring he received the Nobel prize for their work on serum therapeutics.

Germany's Political Prisoners

Large Number Of Persons Held In Concentration Camps

Figures published in Berlin show there are officially 22,000 persons in concentration camps throughout the Reich. Last July the official figures gave only 18,000. In July the figure of 12,000 prisoners was officially admitted for Prussia. Today the figure is put at 15,000. Last summer the Neue Vorwaerts, the organ of the fugitive Socialists concentrated in Prague, asserted that its own estimates showed between 40,000 and 50,000 political prisoners in German concentration camps and an equal number in German jails, making an approximate total of 80,000 or more. The official excuse for the camps is that they are intended as a temporary measure "during the revolution" for the education of those who did not understand the new Germany.

Newspaper An Institution

Col. R. R. McCormick, of the Chicago Tribune, says the newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry through widely circulated advertisements, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide.

SEES MISTAKE IN REICH'S ACTION IN QUITTING LEAGUE

London, Eng.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald declared Germany's notice that she would quit the League of Nations "almost amounts to the repudiation of the peace machinery of the world."

The Prime Minister was speaking at the Guild Hall banquet given by London's new Lord Mayor, Sir Charles Collett.

"We have reduced our armaments to a point where we can rightly claim in the face of the world not a penny is being spent which is not necessary for defence in the light of present conditions," he said.

"The British government in the last 12 months repeatedly has come to the rescue of the disarmament conference. It is deplorable that, just at the moment another attempt was being made to meet German claims, Germany not only withdrew from the deliberations, but has given notice to leave the League of Nations. Such an act amounts almost to repudiation of the peace machinery of the world."

Mr. MacDonald said some terms of the peace treaty and much that had occurred since then "undoubtedly" led to irritating grievances in Germany, "but the policy she has adopted to express and remedy those grievances have only increased the difficulties in meeting her case."

"Her motive," he declared, "I do not question. We have always believed the best policy was to help Germany get out of the conditions she resents. The British government is most anxious to continue that policy if Germany will allow her to do so. Conviction nations that the risk they run in disarmament is little, then the amount of disarmament will be great."

"Failure to understand this," he continued, "has been Germany's fundamental mistake. All these delays make us heartseer, and the patience of Job seems necessary."

World Tariff Truce

Britain Considers Pact No Longer Of Any Value

London, Eng.—In view of the destruction of the world tariff truce negotiated in London last June the British government considers the pact is no longer of any practical value, and consequently the United Kingdom will withdraw from it on December 7.

The House of Commons, crowded as it re-assembled, cheered this statement by Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade.

With the exception of Japan and some other nations practically all the 66 nations represented at the conference adhered to the truce negotiated in the early and optimistic stages of the great London parley.

Since the abortive adjournment, if not conclusion, of the London conference, however, the truce has gradually come into disfavor. Mr. Runciman pointed out Holland, the Irish Free State, Sweden and Switzerland had given notices of withdrawal while France and Denmark had made substantial reservations.

Club At Oxford Suspended

Suspected Of Communist Tendencies And Forbidden To Continue Activities

Oxford, England.—University of Oxford authorities have suspended the "October Club," which has a membership of several hundred students and is suspected of Communist tendencies.

Club leaders were called into a long conference with the proctors and at its conclusion the suspension was announced. The club's members apparently having declined to agree to conditions laid down by the authorities. The club will be forbidden to continue any form of activity so long as the suspension lasts.

Supporters of the club claim it is solely for the purpose of studying Communism, not promoting it.

The ray, developed by a Parisienne, Mlle. Germaine Gourdon, kills mosquitoes by electrical waves and its remarkable results are claimed on its behalf.

Roosevelt Announces Larger Relief Program

Expects To Give Work To Four Million Men

Washington.—President Roosevelt has announced an expansion of the federal relief program aimed at taking 4,000,000 men off public relief rolls.

The plan involves the creation of civil works administration and the use of $400,000,000 of public works funds.

Through these additional funds the administration intends to increase the part time work of men now on relief rolls so that they may be put on a self-sustaining basis.

It is intended 2,000,000 men shall be put on a self-sustaining basis by Nov. 26 and that an additional 2,000,000 men may be put on this basis by Dec. 15.

Approximately 3,000,000 families are now being cared for by public relief agencies, a reduction since April of 1,500,000 families.

Other recovery signs noted at the White House and from Conservative diaries seeking further strengthening of the forces.

"At a time like this, when the international system set up since the war is in jeopardy, we have declared ourselves without any qualification believers in and upholders of the League of Nations as the best possible instrument for international peace," declared Sir John.

"We shall not get out of our difficulties by trying for isolation which the conditions for isolation have disappeared. We have an immense moral authority to assert and we shall use it by making no special or secret alliance with or against any country, but work for friendship and peace between them all."

There were early signs of the coming storms in parliament. Sir John took a dig at David Lloyd George, who sat in the front opposition bench, as an internationalist. He referred to Lloyd George's talk on disarmament for a news-free film.

The minister had hard words also for Sir Stafford Cripps, one of Labor's leaders, for his declaration at Bristol that in disarmament Britain had done nothing; that the British disarmament convention draft, basis of Geneva discussions, would "make the gods laugh."

He described Sir Stafford's statement as "a classic example of the morbid delight which some Englishmen take in the face of the plainest facts in fouling their own nest."

"When an appeal is made for fair play for Germany, are we not entitled to demand fair play for Britain too?" he asked.

It was a still greater outrage Sir John continued, for any man to seek to exploit the peaceful sentiment of British homes by falsely pretending there was any difference between the two sides of the House of Commons in the desire for peace.

Sir John only gave some figures to show what Britain had actually done for disarmament. Since 1914 her capital ships had been cut from 65 to 15; her cruisers from 108 to 54; her destroyers from 216 to 152; her submarines from 74 to 50; torpedo boats from 106 to nil.

The naval personnel had been reduced from 152,000 to 90,000; the regular army had been reduced from 258,960 to 206,534. The Indian army had been cut by 17,000; the air force by 20 per cent. since the post-war period.

"Shame," interrupted a voice from the Conservative benches, when Sir John said Britain now stood no higher than fifth in the list of national air forces.

"Great Britain is using and will continue to use every effort," he said, "to promote international conciliation and disarmament."

Nothing had occurred, he added, "to justify Germany's shock tactics in leaving the League of Nations."

"The most material contribution to restoring the confidence of Europe would be an international disarmament agreement to which Germany must be a party."

Discussion Of Disarmament Statement Is A Possibility

Rome, Italy.—The possibility that Premier Mussolini will call a meeting of four European powers and the United States to consider the disarmament statement was seen by well informed circles here after II Duce and Hermann William Goering, German minister without portfolio, had an hour conference.

The conversation on disarmament was said to have revolved around the method to be pursued to re-open the German parley, broken off shortly after Germany withdrew from Geneva.

SIR JOHN SIMON ON ARMS POLICY OF GREAT BRITAIN

London, Eng.—Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, laid the issue of disarmament before the House of Commons. He frankly recognized the gravity of the hour, but he dismissed deplorable exaggerations.

Whether Germany remained at Geneva or not, the British cabinet minister declared, the supreme aim of British policy would be to promote reconciliation — to endeavor to reconcile Germany's demand for equality with France's desire for security. That was the general political issue.

Sir John's exposition of British disarmament policy, with full cabinet backing, was designed to meet the attack from two sides—from Labor members clamoring for further disarmament and from Conservative diaries seeking further strengthening of the forces.

"At a time like this, when the international system set up since the war is in jeopardy, we have declared ourselves without any qualification believers in and upholders of the League of Nations as the best possible instrument for international peace," declared Sir John.

Britain Will Make Second "Token" Payment

Announcement Made In House By Chancellor Of Exchequer

London, Eng.—The British government will make another "token" payment of the next instalment of the war debt to the United States falls due December 15, paying $7,500,000 in lieu of the $117,000,000 instalment.

Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, made this announcement shortly after the House of Commons reopened, simultaneously with a similar statement in Washington by President Roosevelt.

The payment will be made in United States currency so with the pound above par in the United States the British government will effect a small saving.

It was made clear the United States does not regard Great Britain as defaulting on her war debt instalments, as France and some other nations have done. President Roosevelt was emphatic on this point in announcing acceptance of the "token payment."

"It has unfortunately," said Mr. Chamberlain, "not proved possible to reach an agreement for a final settlement."

"His majesty's government have stated they are ready to resume negotiations on the general question whenever after consultation with the president it may appear this can usefully be done."

Troops Parade In Moscow

Fifty Million Take Part In National Holiday Celebration

Moscow, Russia.—While all Soviet Russia observed a national holiday, Moscow's red square was the focal point. A million persons were estimated to have paraded. From a reviewing stand atop the Lenin mausoleum Stalin, Kalinin, Molotov and their colleagues in government and Communist party watched and answered the cheers of the marchers.

Some 50,000 troops of the red army's Moscow garrison, together with several battalions of sailors, carried out the military phase of the celebration. The military held the square more than three hours as infantry, cavalry, artillery, tanks and the full complement of a modern army corps paraded in smartly-trained units.

The bill is in two sections. The first is that for unemployment insurance proper, in which the benefits payable are covered by contributions payable by the workers. The second is that dealing with unemployed receiving assistance not covered by the contributions.

The first section generally continues the existing law in regard to rates of benefit and contributions, but with provision for an extended benefit period in the case of those with good contribution records.

The minimum age for entry into the scheme will also be lowered to the school-leaving age, with benefits payable from the age of 16, and wide extensions in instruction courses are provided. The fact the fund is now operating with a credit balance instead of running heavily into debt as two years ago, makes these extensions possible.

Saskatchewan And Alberta Increased Consumption This Year

Ottawa, Ont.—Alberta and Saskatchewan increased their consumption of gasoline in the first eight months of 1933 as compared with 1932, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. All the other provinces showed decreased sales. Alberta was this year the third highest consumer, coming next to Ontario and Quebec, whereas last year Alberta was fourth, coming just behind British Columbia.

Previous reports said the movement had spread to Santiago and that the army and navy officers from the Isle of Pines province were prepared to march on the capital.

A lull in the day-long fierce fighting brought ghostly silence to Havana as night fell, but further clashes were regarded as inevitable.

Rebel troops during the day took possession of three important fortresses, San Ambrosio, Dragones and Atarea, placing in each nearly 1,000 well armed dissidents. A sharp battle with gunboats in Havana harbor ensued.

Official reserve surrounded the condition of the gunboats "Cuba" and "Patria" after the engagement, but it was said in shipping circles the vessels were in bad shape. Gunners at Atarea fortress claimed they were both near sinking condition. Harbor police said they were "badly damaged."

President San Martin ordered the courtmartial of any "newspaper director who publishes news of an alarming nature."

Automobiles filled with armed ABC members and rebel soldiers rushed madly through the almost deserted streets and drew the fire of Loyalists lying in the grass in public parks.

Changing ambulances speeded through the streets as frightened Cubans peeped through heavily shuttered windows, anxiously seeking information regarding the progress of the battle.

Foreign property was not attacked, except for the seizure by a group of soldiers of an automobile belonging to a Spanish employee of an American and shot fired on the American club by soldiers.

Havana, Cuba.—A state of war existed throughout Cuba, proclaimed by President Grau San Martin after a vicious army and civilian rebellion, 24 hours old, had killed an estimated 52 persons and wounded 183 others.

Reports came from Matanzas, just east of Havana, that almost the whole of Matanzas province had joined the uprising and that the ABC secret society had captured the town of Bejucal.

Previous reports said the movement had spread to Santiago and that the army and navy officers from the Isle of Pines province were prepared to march on the capital.

BRITAIN WILL INCREASE SCOPE OF DOLE PLAN

London, Eng.—Sixteen million persons will be covered by Britain's gigantic new unemployment insurance scheme. The measure for revising and co-ordinating previous plans with important additions was formally introduced in the House of Commons by Sir Henry B. Betterton, Minister of Labor.

The Labor party executive decided to present a motion of censure on the government on account of its disarmament policy. The government, taking note of this, also scrutinized the result in the Slipton, Yorkshire, by-election, where the Conservatives held the seat but with a greatly reduced majority.

Labor is an overwhelmingly minority in the House of Commons and there is no chance of its censure motion getting acceptance, but the result of the Slipton by-election was cheering to the Labor ranks. The Conservative candidate was elected with 18,136 votes out of a total of 42,216 for four candidates. In the general elections at Westminster, 4,000,000 persons to those workers who are now in the scope of its provisions. Copies of the bill will be distributed, but the main discussion will be deferred to the next session opening November 22.

At present there are somewhat more than 2,000,000 persons on the unemployed registers, a decrease of about half a million in the past 12 months. A questioner in the House asked the minister for more information, the unemployment insurance fund will show a surplus on account during the current fiscal year of more than £25,000,000, which will meet winter contingencies and allow for something towards the deficit of £15,000,000 caused when the fund got out of hand and the dole was created.

The bill is in two sections. The first is that for unemployment insurance proper, in which the benefits payable are covered by contributions payable by the workers. The second is that dealing with unemployed receiving assistance not covered by the contributions.

HOW ABOUT RELIEF
FOR NEWSPAPERS

Now that we've taken care of the banks and the building and loan companies and the insurance companies and the railroads and the mortgage companies and the farmers—does anyone have any objection to some sort of relief for the newspapers?

Bad times and good, the newspapers must go on just the same. The harder the times, the greater value of news. The newspapers must be manned. It costs just as much to get out the newspaper, despite the fact that advertising has dropped to a new record low ebb.

But no one sheds tears for the press. Newspapers are supposed to cry for the relief of others, not for the suffering in individual or corporation form, and snarl for justice and retribution. Every ache is carried to the newspapers, every complaint is given to the press, appeals for the needy, plea for business, charitable and civic organizations, begging for political reform—all is a part of the newspaper's duty to the public.

But when business falls off, advertising contracts are cancelled and publishers are struggling for a livelihood, a sudden attack of deafness comes over the land.

Why not a newspaper moratorium? Let every newspaper in the land close down until business picks up—if it can; close every radio against news broadcasting; allow every gossip on the townsite the freedom of the streets and telephone; make it necessary for every politician to glorify himself single-handed; let the public do its own guessing as to what is happening throughout the civilized world.

Then maybe when the newswires began crying in the streets again there would be an appreciation of the problems of the press.

You "can't believe what you see in the paper" anyway.—Drumheller Review.

Considerable of the lumber placed on the ground near the east side of the Slide, for the new camp to be erected there, was reduced to matchwood by a wind of cyclonic proportions that hit the spot on Friday evening last. Boards and side walls were carried for hundreds of yards, some a distance of a quarter of a mile. The same gust of wind lifted a garage from its foundation near Maple Leaf, lodging it against the roof of a nearby house.

Wow! It's very interesting right now to notice how many efforts are being made by U.S. authorities to get even with Canadians, following the surprising flop-over of currency values. It was announced from Ottawa last week end that postofficees were not permitted to accept U.S. currency under any consideration. This, by the way, was a just retaliatory measure, for when the Americans found a few years ago that it was possible to tax Canadian currency up to 8 or 10 cents on the dollar, business places in the States went so far as to take advantage of the opportunity and exact a further penalty of three to five per cent. Going into the United States recently, Capt. Beebe had a half dozen cigars lifted from him by the customs officer, who no doubt hoped to enjoy a good Canadian smoke. Cap, however, obtained a receipt for the lifted goods, which are still returnable, and unless they are forthcoming within the next few days, such action will be taken as will perhaps start another war.

THE POWLETT CASE

The Powlett case is another instance in which the old folks pay for youthful folly. If Justice Ives' judgment for $56,000 is sustained, it will eventually come out of the taxpayers. The press of the province is, for the most part, very harsh in denouncing the initiation ceremonies which brought about the young man's mental breakdown. Undoubtedly these ceremonies were silly and sounded quite deplorable when appearing baldly in the evidence. But they did not differ greatly from the "rough-housing" that has been going on, in and out of schools and universities, for many generations. Although this case proves that such practices should be stopped, many of the older folk who now express the greatest horror, could recall, if they were honest, incidents of their youth, which might have resulted quite as sadly if their victim had been a susceptible type.

It is obvious that young Powlett was the one case in a thousand, or in ten thousand, that could not take it. He is the "unusual" type that could not conform to demands which the other young people could submit to, and even rather grimly enjoy. It is said that he could have secured immunity from initiation proceedings by appeal to authority but that also would have set him apart. No doubt he tried to face the unknown ordeals, and broke under the tension. The situation rouses the sympathy of all, who rejoice that he seems now on the way to recovery.

In view of the fact that the University has paid the expenses of restorative treatment during the past year, there is some surprise at the judgment of Justice Ives in allowing him $56,000. Surely this is most generous, not only in the light of present human values but in the light of recompense made for loss of life or total disability in other cases. It would seem that a case could be made out against society, for tacitly driving all youth to a mental state bordering on that of young Powlett, or at times driving youth to suicide.

Heads of families with dependents are killed or permanently injured, and no such recompense is awarded. Instances could be multiplied in which injuries have been sustained, which have been quite as serious, and probably more permanent, and responsibility has been quite as definitely placed, with not a tithe of $56,000 allowed on the claims. Indeed, it is a question if the lawyer's fees in the Powlett case would not equal some of the allowances made from time to time for loss of life. Considering the very low value placed upon human beings in the present economic world, the award to Powlett, for what appears to be a temporary injury, is startling. Would the same decision have been made if the case had been conducted against an individual (without intent to injure), or is it another instance of raising the money out of the taxpayer through the government?

In thinking of the sensitive mentality of young Powlett and the unmeasured sympathy of the public for his condition, one is driven to contrast the humanitarian solicitude of civil life with the "rough justice" prevailing in war years. During the war, many young men, probably of the sensitive Powlett type, broke under war brutalities, did unaccountable things for a moment of time, which might have been construed as cowardice. What happened them? They were disgraced, wiped out, finished, an incredibly cruel fate, governed by war moralities.

Truly, the inconsistencies in man's dispensation of justice are beyond understanding.—High River Times.

"IF YE BREAK FAITH...
WE SHALL NOT SLEEP"

Over the crimsoned field where poppies blow.

A grey mist hovers like a changing wraith;

And voices bring a cry from out the mist;

"We sleep not, Comrades; do ye keep the faith?"

They gave their lives to make a better world.

Safe for the old, the helpless, and the young—

Safe for that wider brotherhood of man;

What of that victory so dearly wrung?

What is this foe with whom we keep the quarrel?

What is the conflict that we must suppress?

What but the idol in the marketplace—

The symbol of a nation's selfishness!

Is this remembering, that day by day

They who were with "them" falter to our doors—

Begging their humble stint of daily bread—

The heroes—nay, the victims of our war!

That day by day they toil the weary roads,

While little children starve, and women sigh—

Our granaries overflow with golden grain!

"What say you, Comrades? Is the torch held high?"

Far on Olympus, how the Gods must laugh!

"The larks still sing; the morning comes anon!"

We hoard the golden grain—and fling the chaff!

"The poppies flourish—but our rest is gone!"

—G. E. R. Shaw, Leduc, Alta.

V. A. Bowes, assistant district passenger agent of the C.P.R., of Calgary, accompanied by Mr. A. B. D. Campbell, travelling passenger, succeeding the late Mr. A. G. Shaw, man, were in town on Tuesday, and paid a friendly visit to The Enterprise.

FIDDLERS' GREEN

It was with a feeling of pleasure that we again visited Blairmore recently, seeing old surroundings, meeting old friends and attending their wonderful musical festival. We vividly recall that some twenty-five years ago we made the trip all the way from Moyie to Blairmore to play the fiddle for a dance that was given by our old friend "Bo" Drain in a hotel he was then running there. Our brand of music then was rough and ready, but the dancers clapped their hands and hollered for more. Just imagine—only a violin and piano for a grand ball! But what we lacked in skill, we made up in muscular strength. We would grasp the neck of the fiddle with a pick-handle grip, never getting out of the first position. But we had a powerful right arm, swung a mean bow, and when we would hit the G string in "Turkey in the Straw" we fairly made the rafters ring. The piano player vamped and thumped out the chords with reckless abandon, whether the tune was in B flat or A major, amid the exhortations of the caller to "swing your partners and all promenade!" But we old fiddlers had our footwork developed to the superlative degree of finesse, which was used to advantage in the quadrilles, highland schottische, polkas, and other dances of the day. But a lot of water has passed under the bridge since then, for now when we go back to the Crows' Nest Pass metropolis, we find fiddling to be the chief occupation of the natives, or it certainly was on the particular day we were there. So guess we hit it about right when, upon a previous occasion, we stated that at last we believed "Fiddlers' Green" had been definitely located.—Cranbrook Courier.

In far away New Zealand, the largest turkey farm in that country has been built up from foundation stock secured from turkey breeders in Alberta, according to information from the provincial poultry department. This New Zealand farm is owned and operated by a woman, Mrs. Katherine Bull, who purchased her breeding stock from Alberta some years ago. She forwarded a photograph of her flock recently taken by the governor-general of New Zealand, and she has also placed a further order for breeding stock with the provincial government.

Observance by Chevrolet of its 22nd anniversary brings out some interesting figures. The Chevrolet Motor Company, Michigan, started production on a modest scale in November, 1911, its output for the remainder of the year not exceeding 6 or 6 cars. In the full year of 1912, production totalled 2,999 cars, a marked contrast to production in 1933, which has already crossed the 600,000 mark. The Crows' Nest Pass Motors, Blairmore, are local district agents and distributors of the Chevrolet.

During the fishing season just passed there were fish stories and fish stories, relating accounts of how the biggest was missed and his smaller compatriot landed, etc., etc. But none of the stories we have heard could match "Poor Charley's" tale of how he shot and killed a moose, away in the north country, either accidentally or in self defence. In any case, unlike the average fish story, Charley brought home the evidence—a 900-pound moose, with a bullet injury in the antler and absolute proof of the fatal shot behind the front shoulder. Aiming at the back of the animal's head at long range, he missed, simply touching the horn. The animal, not realizing from which direction the missile came, headed towards the hunter. Before the hunter had time to think of what to do, the big moose stood broadside about forty yards from him, and another shot pierced the heart. In company with Messrs. William and David Oliver, M.L. McKinnon; J. Hepper, of Pincher Creek, and two friends from north of Calgary, the seven were successful in landing five moose, five deer and forty rabbits.

In Holland, apart from natural deterrents, motor buses are not permitted to compete freely with the railways, which are state-owned. Narrow roads with canals on either side, broken by frequent villages with equally narrow streets with sharp turns, have not been conducive to the growth of motoring. In addition, the network of trains, trams and waterways covering the country is extensive and has offered good service for the conveyance of passengers and merchandise, while the bicycle is also prominently in use, it being the Dutchman's favorite mode of transportation. There is one for every three of the population and they are ridden by all classes of society, from the butcher's boy to a cabinet minister or dignitary of the church. A complete absence of hills makes them easy to operate. All of this has a tendency to restrict bus competition with the railways.

BELLEVUE HAPPENINGS

Remembrance Day was fittingly observed here by the members of the B.E.S.L. At 10.30 the members paraded to the United church, where they were addressed by Rev. John Wood. A large congregation was present, among them the Boy Scouts, Girl Guides and Brownies, with their leaders. The programme as mapped out by the central organization for such service followed. After the service, a number of the Vets went to the Union cemetery, where graves of departed comrades were decorated. Return was then made to Frank, to take part in the service there. Later the Scouts, Guides and Brownies attended the Flag Break service at the B.E.S.L. club rooms. The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Bellevue arena was held on Monday evening. The secretary-treasurer's report showed a small balance of cash on hand. Election of directors to fill vacancies at retiring directors, Messrs Barlass, Costick and Wells, resulted in Mr. Barlass being re-elected director and secretary-treasurer and James Radford and Thomas Allsopp to the board of directors. At the present, it is not definitely decided whether or not the arena will open this season.

The Ladies' Aid of the United church are busy just now, getting ready for their annual sale of Christmas goods. There will be something there for all your needs. Call and see what's offered. Tea will be served from 2 to 5.30 p.m.

HILLCREST HAPPENINGS

The Ladies' Aid of the Hillcrest United church will hold their annual bazaar in the church from 2.30 to 6 p.m. on Saturday, December 2nd. Here's a chance to do some Christmas buying.

Donald Thornton, who is attending high school in Calgary, was home for the Armistice holidays.

J. Graham, of Coaldale, is a visitor in town.

G. E. Cruickshank was a Calgary visitor over the week end.

The annual meeting of the Hillcrest Miners' Club was held on Sunday at the clubrooms. R. Gardiner was elected president and G. Millar secretary. A very satisfactory balance sheet, showing the club's financial standing, was submitted and the retiring committee are to be congratulated upon the manner they have handled the affairs in the past year.

Miss Elsie Bamforth has returned home from holidaying in Fernie.

A very successful dance and concert was held on Friday evening in the Union hall, under auspices of the unemployed of Bellevue.

Miss Catherine Rose entertained the youngsters of her action song class on Saturday at a party. Games were played and a wonderful time was had by all.

R. Porter left last week for his new school at Youngstown, near Calgary. Mr. Porter received word last week that his application for the position as teacher there had been accepted.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Littleton are paying a visit of a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Welsh and family at their ranch home north of Lundbreck.

Rev. Dr. Powell, superintendent of missions, will address a gathering in the United church here on Monday evening next, following a musical concert to be given by talent from the Crown's Nest Pass Musical Festival. Dr. Powell will also conduct service here on Sunday afternoon.

A very successful bazaar, sponsored by St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, was held at Lundbreck on Saturday last, when a large crowd attended both afternoon and evening sessions. Aside from the general sale of work and sundry attractions, a number of prizes were awarded in the following order: Alex. MacLinn, Burns; Freshman radio; Miss Nellie Johnson, Lundbreck, Coleman iron; Mrs. G. W. Labrie, Cowley, felt rug; Master Jack Bundy, Cowley, quilt; Mrs. Gerald Bradshaw, Cowley, rainbow doll.

Word has been received of the death of Miss Mary Drewry at Calgary. She will be remembered by many friends in Cowley, having resided here for a number of years. Miss Drewry was a native of Ontario, being predeceased by her brother, John C. Drewry, some years ago. Two brothers survive.

PROTESTS REMARKS OF RELIEF COMMISSIONER

EDMONTON, Nov. 15.—Alberta Federation of Labor today brought Premier J. E. Brownlee's attention to remarks credited to the relief commission chairman, A. A. Mackenzie. The federation makes a strong protest against the remarks. The federation objects to any official remarking in charge of relief work with the expressed opinions of Mr. Mackenzie. The protest is signed by F. J. White, Calgary Labor M.L.A., president, and Carl Baer, secretary. Mackenzie recently condemned prevailing relief practices and among other things said, "this business of giving men food, clothing and beds for loafing is not going to continue. Every man will have to work for his relief."

GLAD TO RETURN TO CANADA

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 13.—Six years of anxious waiting and living in a country hostile to their beliefs came to a happy end when a Jewish family was allowed to leave Russia for Canada several weeks ago. The mother and her six children arrived in Winnipeg a few days ago, and were overjoyed to be met by friends at the Canadian National Railways station.

Rabbi Haft, the husband and father, who met the family in Safferton, was a refugee from his native country, Russia, six years ago. Since that time he has been endeavoring, with the aid of his countrymen here, to secure permission for his family to leave Russia and join him. At the cost of $1,500 for passage alone, he has at last succeeded. The Haft family has not suffered physically, judging by appearance and according to translated remarks of the mother. The dollar is almighty in Russia, and if you possess such you can buy, she said. Rabbi Haft has supplied his family with enough dollars to prevent scarcity of food.

Mrs. Haft, a thin little woman with vivacious black eyes, has borne her troubles bravely and walks now with the uprightness and proud carriage which defies reverses and sorrow. She shook her head firmly and declined to speak of Russia. Clothing had been sent to the family, and, so far as appearances were concerned, it might have been a family from any part of Canada arriving, but none of them understand English.

Twenty years ago Charlie O'Brien made a lecture tour of Alberta and British Columbia, speaking on "Syndicalism" and defining the difference between Socialists and I.W.W.

SINGLE UNEMPLOYED MUST AVAIL OF WORK

Calgary, Nov. 14.—Stricter enforcement of relief regulations was revealed today by A. A. Mackenzie, Alberta Relief Commission chairman, following a commission meeting here last night. The commission also discussed plans for placing single jobless on farms.

"Every man's case," the commission chairman said, "will be investigated thoroughly. The commission intends to use the greatest caution in issuing clothing. If necessary statements will be taken under oath in order that a complete check may be made of earnings. When we find men are applying fraudulently we will prosecute."

"There are many jobs available in the country. Our farm job plan is working out well, and we are going to insist men take such jobs. The individual seems to be forgetting he is responsible for his own support. The state is not."

He emphasized great care would be taken in the farm plan to see farmers do not dismiss regular hired help to obtain the cheaper relief labor. The relief workers on the farm will get $5 per month from the commission, the farmer receiving nothing but the man's labor.

NEW B. C. GOVERNMENT SWORN INTO OFFICE

The new Liberal government of British Columbia was sworn in yesterday by Lieut-Governor J. W. Fordham Johnson, with cabinet, as follows:

Thomas Dufferin Pattullo, Prince Rupert, premier, president of the council and minister of railways.

George Moler Weir, Vancouver, provincial secretary and minister of education.

Gordon McGregor Sloan, Vancouver, attorney-general.

Arthur Wellesley Gray, New Westminster, minister of lands.

John Hart, Victoria, minister of finance.

Verne Kenneth Cattenach MacDonald, Vernon, minister of agriculture.

George Sharratt Pearson, Nanaimo, minister of mines and labor.

Frank Mitchell Macpherson, Cranbrook, minister of public works.

At an assembly of supposed-to-be Reds at the band stand here on Saturday evening, one or more of the gathering were reported to have made use of insulting and vulgar language. There is also evidence that fights ensued among themselves, and that souvenirs in the form of beautifully blacked eyes were borne by some of them next day.

In order to get satisfaction out of the turkey supper, an annual affair staged by the Ladies' Aid of the United church, and which by the way is promised for Wednesday night next, we have procured a double supply of tickets, and being almost Scotch, expect to fast from Saturday to Wednesday so as to get even with the party who sold the tickets. We would advise everyone, however, to be at the United church on Wednesday evening next at 6 o'clock sharp, and to bring their fifty-cent appetites with them.

Local district teachers attending the convention at Lethbridge last week, end included: Miss Nellie McWilliams, Cowley; Misses Doris Walters and Frances May Smith, Lundbreck; Miss Vera Cox, Burns; Misses Annie Yuill, Margaret Dunlop, Ethel Dunlop, Olga Hole, Edith Haysom, Kathleen Milley and Ethel Wilson, Coleman; Tony Schmeidl and Misses Begbie Morris, Beatrice Nicholson and Annie C. Penman, Bellevue; Donald Grant, William Webster and Misses Irene Turner, B. C. Sellen, Emily Strachan and Audrey Martin, Hillcrest; Sidney White, Mrs. C. E. Fleming, and Misses Lydia Brunetto, Bessie Crowder, Lena Fraser, Edna Fisher, Geraldine Frey, Margaret A. Hamilton, Florence North and Kathleen Tompkins, Blaimore.

Since the adoption of the old age pension act, young girls don't hang on to their eighteenth year as long as they used to.

The second phase of the sensational seduction suit against Premier Brownlee was reached on Monday with the filing of defendant's defence statement, the full text of which is published in the daily press. The statement alleges that the statement of claim is false, frivolous, vexatious, scandalous and abuse of the process of court. A charge of conspiracy has been entered against Vivian MacMillan and John Caldwell, university student, claiming $10,000 special damages and such other amount as the court may decide.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt, young and beautiful commercial artist, and Peter Anson,
 a struggling sculptor, meet in an art class and fall in love. She is the adopted daughter of a wealthy family, but is not to share in their fortune when she comes of age. They are faced with the problem of "marriage or career" and Camilla does not want to be a socialite. She has no such promise as a sculptor.
 At an art school dance, Gus Matson, Peter's roommate, who is jealous of Peter's success, takes Camilla out on the lawn to tell her something she should know about Peter. Gus tells Camilla Peter is a cheat, that he only wants her money,
 and that he, Gus, loves her himself.
 At that moment Peter appears on the scene and knocks Gus flat. On the way home from the party, Camilla tells Peter they are going to do something about their problem. She decides that they are to be married, and until Peter establishes himself, go on living their separate lives. Above
 Peter's protests she carries her point.
 Gus leaves Peter, and Peter and Cam-
 illa make plans for their marriage.
 They decide not to tell Mrs. Hoyt,
 who wants to see Camilla marry money. They are married quietly, and over their wedding dinner together
 happily talk of their likes and dislikes.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XVII

Their conversation about the pictures which Camilla had purchased for her room when she was nine years old, had some influence with the decoration of Peter's studio. Of course, he knew that her ideas and preferences had gone modern after the modern manner, but where there was an indigenous foundation of classic appreciation, the new structure above
 was bound to be influenced largely
 by it.

He planned and selected accordingly,
 delighting in his task. In this day of women's emancipation, it seemed a bit incongruous that he was the master adorning the castle for his bride, and particularly in view of their very modern marriage arrangements.
 It had to be worthy of her, however trivial the cost might be.

Even so, he was rather proud of the finished result and hoped anxiously that Camilla would like it.
 Somehow, he was sure she would. He felt so sure about Camilla in every way. Instead of feeling panic at the thought of being married, when he had always placed that experience

 far beyond in his career, he felt a sense of peace and security that afforded him a greater hope than he ever had believed possible before.

After their prolonged wedding dinner at Charm Cottage, they walked through the park and down the avenue to Anson Hall, in the soft magic
 of the June twilight. To them the whole world was a changed place.
 Familiar objects and sights were enhanced by the reflected light of their dreams and hopes and the transformation of love. The fairy tale about wearing rose-colored glasses is not so fantastic as it may seem. Everyone changes his smoked glasses of gloom
 for the tinted ones according to his mood and the experiences of the hour.
 Their transformation of the same objects is as amazing as that which the advertisements promise to stout or ageing women.

With hearts beating high for no
 obvious reasons, they talked as casually as though they had just left Professor's Drake's class, to separate at the far side of the campus; but the sky had never been so blue nor
 the sunset so golden to them as it was upon that day.

To reach the entrance of Annex Hall, they were obliged to turn from the avenue into an alley and cross
 a paved court. The building really was an old mansion whose spacious,
 high-windowed rooms had been converted into studio rooms to let, but it joined the more pretentious and newer Craft building with its modern construction that catered to the whims and exacting requirements of more established and successful artists. A corridor connected them, but it was an inflexible and unwritten code that tenants of the annex
 scorned the more sophisticated entrance of the Craft building, which would lead into the other. It was like leading light to your caste, or refusing to be a hypocrite.

So Peter and his bride, respected the conventions, and entered through the carved and weathered portal of the annex, which proclaimed its magnificent past like an impoverished dowager claiming her haughty ancestry. The air was heavy with the dusty silks and faded velvet. They were greeted by the odor that is prevalent in old houses, mixed with the fumes of paints and oils and the more recent odors of food, it being
 the dinner hour in those one-room apartments whose high doors concealed brave hopes and secret heartaches.
 One feels this atmosphere of intense conflict in such places, where the striving genius has retired to hush
 and struggle until it opens its doors
 and strides forth to astonish the world with its achievement; like the brilliant butterfly emerging from its chrysalis.

Perhaps each of them sensed this atmosphere of retirement into obscurity, for they were silent while they climbed the old carved stairway
 and followed the dimly lighted corridor to their room. But their silence was not oppressive with doubts and fears. Were they not retiring into obscurity, together, to work and hope side by side and emerge triumphant together? In their youthful imagination, they already walked the avenue
 of fame with laurel wreaths upon their brows and passed beneath the arch of triumph together.

Peter broke their silence with awkward bluntness as he stopped before

a door on which were tacked small metal digits to form the number 27.
 "Well, here we are," Mrs. Anson Number twenty-seven, Struggle Avenue, Hope Annex." He drew a key ring from his pocket and fitted one of the keys into an old-fashioned lock.
 He pushed the door open and stood
 aside for her to enter.

Camilla gave the room a quick
 glance and then looked at Peter.
 He was alarmed. "What's the matter, dear?"
 "Nothing at all," she smiled. "But I was just thinking, Peter, darling,
 about that old custom of carrying the bride over the threshold of the new home, so that happiness and prosperity will dwell there. This may be the only home we'll have for quite a long time."

He had her in his arms before she could finish, holding her as lightly
 as a river supports a leaf, as he stepped into the room with her. He turned and closed the door behind them with his foot, then kissed her
 and set her down gently in the center of the room.

Camilla laughed happily and looked about her. He waited anxiously for her verdict.

Finally, she gave a little gasp of delight. "Why, Peter, it's beautiful.
 I had no idea that you could—but where did you get all of these lovely things, dear?" Her enthusiasm pleased him immensely.

"It would take a while to explain
 the history of everything, but you can get it all gradually. For instance—well, what do you like best?"
 She glanced around the room
 again, quickly. "I am most curious about that model group in the window alcove. Where did you get that—its marvelous!"

That overthrew the measure of his delight. "That, my dear, is my wedding gift to you. How did you know?"

"You made that?" with astonishment.

"And you inspired it."

She crossed the room to examine the model closely. Her fingers touched the statue reverently. The principal figure was a woman with a shawl
 over her head, avary; the expression of her face and the posture of her body portraying ake a wistful wear-ness, a timid aggressiveness, a fearful hope. Her face was lifted up toward a distant object that was vaguely obscure. But each of her hands clasped
 the hand of a child—a boy on one side and a girl on the other, who leaned against her and seemed to drag
 back in fear. But their faces, too, were lifted toward that invisible object in the distance. The clothing of all three was ill-fitting and clumsy,
 and there lay a knobby bundle close beside them on the plinth at their feet.

Camilla turned to Peter reverently.
 "You have done this beautiful thing
 just for me, darling?"

"Do you like it?" taking her in his arms and kissing her.

"I love it next to you, because it is part of yourself," she told him,
 with wonder in her voice. "If you can do that for me—you can do anything. I have no fear for us now."

He dismissed her praise with a happy confusion. "You are a prejudiced critic. I can see that. But it makes me happy just the same, and gives me hope. Remember what you said that first night, when we were alone together, about the brave souls
 who arrive at Ellis Island with shawls on their heads and hope in their hearts. I began to work on this for you soon afterward. Then when we planned later to be married so soon,
 I saved it for a surprise on our wedding day."

"It's perfect, Peter, and so right
 isn't it? It expresses us, exactly. Oh,
 I can't put into words what I feel,
 dear, but you have it all there; every emotion and dream and fear that a brave adventure brings."

"Your interpretation is even wider than my own," he admired thoughtfully. "You see, already, you have inspired the best thing I have done
 and have doubled its meaning at the first glance. If I expected to succeed without you, what shall I do with you?"

"Become very famous, of course,"
 she told him confidently, and moved nearer into his embrace.

"You are so sweet," he murmured,
 holding her close.

Camilla reached her arms up around his neck and their eyes plunged deep into each other's, beyond the mysteries which had limited
 their vision until that hour.

"Peter, my husband," she whispered. Camilla, my wife," his voice trembled.

(To Be Continued.)
 "My last five secretaries left me in tears."
 "Really. Do you cry much?"

Organize Reserve Force

Women in London Will Be Available
 in Emergencies

A women's reserve force of 2,000
 to serve in local or national emergencies is being formed in London by Miss Mary Allen, until her resignation
 some months ago celebrated as the commandant of the women's force
 attached to the Metropolitan Police.
 Commandant Allen raised an unofficial body of women for street patrol and other duties during the war.

Women who own aeroplanes or motor cars are especially welcomed to the new body. One particular course of instruction for the recruits is the use of gas masks and methods of dealing with victims of gas poisoning.

"I do not wish to particularize regarding an emergency," Miss Allen said, "but ever since the general strike people have approached me regarding the formation of such an organization. It is not intended to be a military body, but the officers will hold military rank. All the members will wear a uniform."

This uniform consists of a long
 blue, double-breasted coat with leather belts and braids. Recruits will be eligible from the age of 16 up.

New Society Advocates
World Police Force

Its Main Object Would Be To Maintain Peace

To advocate a world police force to maintain peace, a new international society has just been formed in London. The president is George N.
 Barnes and the honorable treasurer
 Lord Davies of Llandinam. The society is known as the New Commonwealth. It advocates, in addition to an international police force, an international tribunal empowered to deal with all disputes threatening the peace of the world which do not come at present within the scope of the permanent court of international justice.

Relief Gardens in England

In the towns and villages of England and Wales there are more than 1,000,000 allotment holders producing,
 it has been estimated, $50,000,000
 worth of vegetables and fruits every year on their small plots provided for them by the municipalities. Probably half these men are otherwise unemployed.

There are ten women in the United States who hold licenses showing that they know how to repack and repair parachutes.

New Household Pet

Naturalist Says People Would Enjoy
 Watching Praying Mantids

The praying mantis, a slender insect with long thin legs, may soon become an American household pet, according to Dr. Walter F. Shelton, of American University.

In an article published by the American Nature Association, Dr.
 Shelton points out the praying mantis
 has for centuries been held in reverence by Oriental peasants, French
 farmers and the Hottentots.

The insect derives its name from the position of the two forelegs
 which it folds together compactly to resemble an attitude of prayer.

"If you want to enjoy this insect at its best," Dr. Shelton said, "be on the lookout for an egg-case or two this winter. Do not bring them into the warm house as they will hatch
 out before you can find food for the infants. A rectangular aquarium with a screen top makes a fine home."

"As soon as the mantis reach any considerable size you will have to provide separate apartments for each one, as they are cannibalistic when hungry. Any live insects not too large for them to handle will make satisfactory food."

"My personal experience leads me
 to believe they will give you many hours of pleasure and much amusement."

Little Helps For This Week

"My brethren count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations, knowing this, that the trying of your faith
 worketh patience."—James 1:2, 3.

For patience when the rough winds blow.
 For patience when our hopes are fading.

When visible things all backward go,
 And nowhere seems the power of authority.
 God still enfolds thee with His vi-
 sionless hand
 And leads thee surely to the Fatherland.

—N. L. Forthingham.

We have need of patience with others as well as ourselves, with those above and those below, and with our own equals, with those who love us and with those who love us not, for the greatest things and for the least, against sudden inroads of trouble and under our daily burdens, disappointment, or the breaking of the heart; in the weariness of the body and the wearing of the soul. We need it in the everyday wants or the aching of sickness, in bereavement, losses or in heaviness of heart. In all these things patience is the grace of God whereby
 we endure evil for the love of God.—E. B. Pusey.

An Unassuming Magnate

Sir Herbert Austin Might Easily Be Taken For One Of His Employees

Sir Herbert Austin, the motor magnate, will probably stimulate controversy with his plan that some system should be evolved that will enable women to be taken out of industry, thus helping to solve the unemployment problem for men. Sir Herbert Austin, though one of the outstanding industrialists in this country, is also one of the most unassuming. His principal hobby is work, which he accomplishes mainly with a stub of a pencil. He can do more with this stub of pencil in the way of designing pieces of automobiles than a whole staff of draughts-
 men equipped with boxes of drawing instruments. Anyone visiting his factory, who did not know him by sight,
 might mistake him, in his old coat,
 for one of the least-important employees. This erroneous impression would be confirmed by a casual chat, for Sir Herbert Austin, like his fellow-manufacturer Sir William Morris, is entirely devoid of "side."—London Correspondent Ottawa Journal.

No Cause For Pessimism

West Will Again See Demand For Farm Products

Western Canada, with its large yield of farm products, and its possibilities of vastly greater production,
 should not be discouraged about its future. The world managed to consume the production of vast areas of new lands during the past sixty years
 without any apparent indigestion until the present depression came along.
 A restoration of good times would immediately see improved demand for farm products. And there are no great new lands similar to Western Canada, Argentina and Australia, still to be opened for agricultural development.—Calgary Herald.

DO NOT WORRY! GET SOME

 WILL STOP THAT PAIN IN A FEW MINUTES.

Real ASPIRIN Starts Taking Hold in Few Minutes

Now comes amazingly quick relief
 from headaches, rheumatism, neuralgias... the fastest safe relief.
 It is said, get discovered.
 Those results are due to a scientific discovery by which an Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after it is swallowed.
 And hence to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.
 The illustration of the glass, here,
 tells the story. An Aspirin Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And that is ready to go to work almost instantly.
 When you buy, though, be on guard against substitutes. To be sure you get ASPIRIN's quick relief, be sure the same Bayer's form of a cross is on every tablet of Aspirin.

WHY ASPIRIN
 WORKS SO FAST

Drop an Aspirin
 Tablet in a glass of water. Note that BE-FORE it touches bottom, it has started to
 disintegrate.
 What it does in this
 instant is to begin to dissolve, and hence to go to work almost instantly.

He has travelled all over Canada and the United States, delivering lectures in the interests of Pythianism.

Since our last issue we learn that Mayor Knight and the town council were not all to blame for undertaking to cut off water service from the United church, but that they were acting on instructions from an executive member of the church. But this is not getting away from the fact that if the council are to accede to the demands of Murphy and in turn the Workers' Unity League, they would be opposed to churches and avail of any opportunity to condemn or cripple them. Churches and societies are instruments for much good in our community, while the Unity League is a direct opposition.
